REVIEWS.

One man dies from alcohol every seven minutes.

An official census of Japan shows a population of 38,000,000.

The House of Representatives has refused to abolish the death penalty by a vote of 73 to 57.

The whole production of the precious metals throughout the world last year is estimated to have been worth $19,000,000.

It is said that Simmons, the Boston Collector of Customs, is a wealthy man, having made at least $130,000 as a Government spy.

They have a new drink at the cafe in Paris in which the benedictine, brandy, laudanum, and considerable spices.

Wendell Phillips is reported to have cleared by his lecture over $100,000. With the exception of George Becker, he is the most popular public speaker in the country.

A West Irish policeman resigned because he couldn't get permission to attend a dog fight and bet on the winning pug.

A San Francisco masked ball was attended by a young lady named Nicole. Her dress was made of tobacco leaves, her necklace was cigars, and she carried a fan and a parasol constructed of the weed.

Last week Mr. George W. Childs issued 500,000 copies of the Philadelphia Ledger. And yet he is not happy. He still laments the New York Herald, and occasionally casts a sly glance at the London Times.

The New York Mail says that a celebrated artist in that city is painting the portrait of six of the most beautiful young ladies in New York, in one large group. The young ladies are to represent the six continents and are to be exhibited and sold for the benefit of a church now heavily in debt. The artist does his work without compensation.

Probably the fastest train in the world is the express train on the Great Western Road which leaves London (Paddington Station) at 11:45 A. M., and arrives at Swindon Junction (80 miles) 1:15 P. M., at an average rate of 54 miles per hour. It is an American "lightning express" train carrying a speed of thirty miles an hour.

The payments made from the treasury by warrant during February were as follows: On account of civil and miscellaneous $4,329,370; war, $3,881,515; navy, $3,302,430; interior, $2,450,000; agriculture, $2,000,000; total, $17,010,375. The above does not include payments made on account of the interest or principal of the public debt.

A curious man has just come to light at Madison, Wisconsin. An Irishman named Patrick Duggan, a resident of the town of Vermont, died recently, leaving property valued at $35,000. The man was a miser, and the greater part of his property to five nephews, on condition that they marry certain young ladies whom he mentioned in his will. Two of his nephews also receive a large sum, on condition that they marry young women whom he has selected for them.

From Washington.

Our special refers to the continued illness of Mr. Stephens.

It also makes some statements interesting to our Post-Office incumbents.

The new public library building of Cincinnati was recently dedicated with appropriate ceremonies. It is said to be one of the finest library buildings in the world, and at least the finest one in this country. Its cost was $450,000. George H. Pendleton delivered the dedicatory address. The library has an annual income for the purchase of books of $300,000, derived from a tax of one cent of a mill on the value of property. It has a yearly circulation of 250,000 volumes.

The Direct-Trade Union.

Subscriptions for the stock of this newly chartered company are coming in freely, not only from this State, but from the surrounding States as well. The first installment of ten per cent, has been called for, and as soon as that is in the treasury, the company will be organized, and go into active operation. It is hoped that there will be no unnecessary delay, as there are large amounts of cotton awaiting shipment.

This organization is carefully watched in New York and perhaps at other shipping points, but no amount of jealousy or rivalry can interfere with its work, if the parties directly interested will stand shoulder to shoulder. On the other hand, many are awaiting its inception as the forerunner of a better state of things. The Secretary of the Hazlewood grange of Waldo, Missouri, writes that he has thirty bales of cotton which he desires to ship through the Union as soon as it is organized, and a considerable number of Missouri planters have pledged themselves to ship their cotton through the new company's success to it and Direct Trade.

The Columbia Convention.

Through the courtesy of Secretary Johnston, we have the Proceedings of the 1914 Convention of the State Agricultural Society—a handsome pamphlet of eighty-four pages full of interesting matter. In addition to the copious minutes of the convention, it contains the semi-annual report of the Executive Committee; Colonel Hardeman's annual statistical paper, showing the present condition of the farming interests of Georgia; Prof. H. D. White's complete analysis of the cotton plant; Dr. M. J. Pendleton's report of agricultural experiments; and Capt. E. T. Paine's report on the advantages of direct trade with Europe.

All of these papers are replete with useful suggestions and important information that every citizen of the State should carefully read.

The Great Southern Mail.

The New York Bulletin brings pleasant news for our business men who have dealings with New York. Postmaster James of that city has recently made arrangements with the postmasters of Philadelphia and Washington that will insure a rapid distribution of the bulky Southern mail as soon as they arrive in New York. These mails amount to about four, four and a half, and between the local delivery of the mails, the arrival, the delivery in the city has been slow and vexatious, oftentimes amounting to a day's postponement. To remedy this, clerks thoroughly acquainted with the city delivery in all its details will be sent to arrange the mails, before they arrive, in packages for immediate distribution to the various offices and boxes of New York, thus enabling her merchants and business men to receive their correspondence at the earliest possible moment. This, on the whole, is a very great saving of time and as "time is money," Postmaster James, in this display of well-directed enterprise, has conferred a substantial benefit upon the public.

Dr. O. C. Stephens, Superintendent of the New York State Asylum for the Insane, has been elected to the position of Superintendent of the Georgia State Asylum for the Insane.
